

To School, to School!

This Chinese New Year, the School of Fun gets on our horse and take tiny steps to this door. Yup, to school, to the big brothers school, we go!

The school needed a volunteer to conduct a Chinese New Year related art and craft session and we put our hand up. And this Chinese New Year, I couldnt think of any other book with that to offer than The Magic Horse of Han Gan. Later that day, on the way home, the big brother asked if I would come and join him at school again next time. It really made my heart swell with joy. I know he enjoyed taking the assistant role while I conducted the first session but when he asked me that question, I learned that he was proud to have me in his classroom. And the next day, when one of his friends asked the same question, I know I must have done something right somewhere.
